“Transimmanency - Symbiotic Treatments” is a trans- interactive installation that, through web technology and bright resonant objects, reshapes human immanence by immersing it in a new audiovisual realm. The aim of the installation is to offer visitors the opportunity to challenge the society of control through the same mechanisms that govern it, providing them a medium to express their creativity and celebrate their uniqueness. Through the use of vibrating transducers, light, and customized web interactions, visitor’s audiovisual generated content is transformed into a new sensory experience, transcending predefined rules and established power structures.
